Listing of Claims:

Claim 1 (original) A backup system for a computer having a hard drive comprising:
a program appliance comprising a program attachable in data communication with the computer; and a data storage appliance attachable in data communication with the computer, wherein the program is configured to copy the files from the hard drive to the data storage appliance without installation of the program on the hard drive.

Claim 2 (original) The backup system of claim 1 wherein the program appliance and the data storage appliance are the same appliance.

Claim 3 (original) The backup system of claim 1 wherein the program is further configured to execute automatically upon the program appliance being attached to the computer.

Claim 4 (original) The backup system of claim 1 wherein the program is further configured to copy the files from the data storage appliance to the hard drive without installation of the program on the hard drive.

Claim 5 (original) The backup system of claim 1 further comprising:
a network in data communication with the computer; and a server computer in data communication with the network, wherein the data communication between the data storage appliance and the computer is provided through the server.

Claim 6 (original) The backup system of claim 5 wherein the program is further configured to copy the files from the data storage appliance to the hard drive without installation of the program on the hard drive.

Claim 7 (original) The backup system of claim 5 wherein the program is further configured to execute automatically upon the program appliance being attached to the computer.
